how to get a loan without credit 'we use technology to control the conditions in which the crop grows, and that enhanced control gives us higher yields and better quality all i could think was ‘how on earth could someone telling you something so obvious be meaningful to you? of course you look pretty in that color this is typically a result of it absorbing carbon dioxide from the air, which converts to carbonic acid once in the water.